Leadership Team Message

We're looking forward to another productive year for the Los Gatos-Saratoga branch of AAUW. Over the summer the Board members and leadership team reviewed the past year celebrating our 75th anniversary and laid out our overall goals for 2016-2017.

First: We will raise money for our three local programs — Local Scholarships, Tech Trek and the Committee on Homeless Women and Children – and for the AAUW Fund which supports several programs nationally. Of course donations are welcome at any time, and we deeply appreciate the generosity of our members who donated with their dues renewal. Watch for an appeal letter in the fall.

Second: We will offer a range of interesting programs open to all members and guests.

- September 17 – our traditional kick-off event at the Terraces in Los Gatos; see the cover of this Grapevine for more details.
- October 19 – pros and cons of California ballot initiatives, co-sponsored with the League of Women Voters, at Saratoga Retirement Community.
- January 29, 2017 – “Women in Leadership” sponsored by the Interbranch Council of Santa Clara, representing all seven AAUW branches within the County, at San Jose City College.
- February 16, 2017 – Authors' Lunch at the Terraces in Los Gatos; this is our annual fundraiser for the association's AAUW Fund supporting fellowships, community action grants and other programs.
- April 1, 2017 – English Tea at the Joan Pisani Saratoga Senior Center, our fundraiser for our Committee on Homeless Women and Children and for our Local Scholarships.

- May 20, 2017 – Our annual potluck luncheon at St. Andrew's Episcopal Church in Saratoga. Our speaker Carla Walter from Chabot College will bring us up to date on what college is like today (it's changed since we were students). We'll recognize our 50-year members and Named Gift Honorees.

During the holiday season you can join our Committee on Homeless to wrap gifts for homeless women, or you can help the San Jose branch with Gifts for Teens as they put together backpacks and totes for local teenagers. Some of our many interest groups will also have holiday parties you can attend.

Third: This column will highlight the many interest sections which our members enjoy such as book reviews, bridge, hikes and walks, Great Decisions and travel. You should know that prospective members can attend one of these meetings before deciding to join AAUW so feel free to invite them!

Once again we thank our dedicated Grapevine editor Gail Pedersen, assisted with proofreading from Ann Griffin. The newsletter is available by email or regular mail and archived on our branch website at www.aauw-lgs.org. With help from Barbara Lea, Gail also produced the branch Directory which you can pick up at the September 17 meeting. Please support the sponsors who helped make the Directory possible.

Thank you for your membership in AAUW. Working together we'll all have another great year!

Spotlight On: Morning Book Discussion

The Morning Book Discussion group is for readers of all types. We like History, Non-fiction, Literary Fiction, Frivolous Fiction, Biographies, Memoirs, Mysteries and anything at all in book form. All of us bring a book to talk about, any book. We might talk about how much we loved it when we were in high school, or maybe yesterday or last year. Then again we might warn everybody that it's a terrible book and not to waste their money. We might explain that the book would have been good if only...

I make a list of all the books discussed and send it out to our members after every meeting. Many like to take the list with them to the library and check out the books they thought sounded interesting.

A book several of us have read after hearing it reviewed is A Man Called Ove by Fredrik Backman. Some of us raved about it and thought it the best book we had read in ages. On the other hand some of us thought it was over-rated and boring. All opinions are interesting and part of what makes discussing what we read so much fun.

- We had a lot of variation in opinions about Harper Lee's new book Go Set a Watchman.
- Maman's Homesick Pie by Donia Bijan (one of the authors who spoke at last year's Author's Lunch) caused two different members, unbeknownst to the other, to bake a batch of cookies from the book for all of us to enjoy!

- Major Pettigrew's Last Stand by Helen Simonson was well received by all reviewers.
- There were a variety of reactions voiced to Orphan Train by Christine Bake Cline.
- Two other books – (1) 1932: The Rise of Hitler and FDR proved discussion worthy, as did (2) Saving Capitalism by Robert Reich.

Quotes about how AM Book Reviewers feel about our discussions:

"For me an intellectual 'life saver'! Interesting subjects, intelligent people, stimulating conversation, but, alas, running out of time to read all those wonderful books."

"What better way to spend a morning than with a group of smart, thoughtful and knowledgeable women discussing books they have read..."

"Our book group is a wonderfully diverse group of women who share a great love of books. I always leave our meetings delighted from the company and a list of new books I want to read. Great fun!"

Join AAUW to Advance Equity for Women and Girls

AAUW has been empowering women as individuals and as a community since 1881. For more than 130 years, we have worked together as a national grassroots organization to improve the lives of millions of women and their families.

Educational Funding and Awards:

AAUW has a long and distinguished history of advancing educational and professional opportunities for women in the United States and around the globe. One of the world's largest sources of funding for graduate women, AAUW will provide more than $3.7 million in funding for more than 230 fellowships and grants to outstanding women and nonprofit organizations in the 2016–17 academic year. Several of the current recipients will speak at a luncheon on Saturday, October 29, at Crow Canyon Country Club in Danville; check your California "Perspective" for details.

Research That Matters in the Lives of Women and Girls:

AAUW conducts groundbreaking research on issues related to gender equity in education and the workplace. Our work influences the national discussion on topics like the pay gap between women and men, sexual harassment in schools and on college campuses, and the underrepresentation of women in science and engineering. Through new and traditional media, targeted outreach to policymakers, and member efforts, AAUW research serves as a catalyst for action.

Public Policy:

Since AAUW's founding our members and supporters have spoken out about policies important to women and girls. Without their voices, invaluable legislation would have never been passed. In recent years, such legislation included the Family and Medical Leave Act, the Matthew Shepard and James Byrd Jr. Hate Crimes Prevention Act, and the Lilly Ledbetter Fair Pay Act.

AAUW's policy work connects and rallies advocates at the local, state, national, and global levels to advance our work to empower women and girls. With the member-endorsed Public Policy Program as our guide, AAUW uses lobbying and grassroots efforts to push forward policies that break through educational and economic barriers for women. AAUW members across the country who give their time, energy, and voice to AAUW issues deserve the credit for truly advancing women.

Legal Advocacy Fund:

The Legal Advocacy Fund (LAF) works to challenge sex discrimination in higher education and the workplace. Our resources range from community outreach programs to backing of major cases. Sex discrimination today takes a variety of forms: unfair pay, pregnancy discrimination, sexual harassment, sexual assault, and violations of Title IX of the Education Amendments of 1972 can affect both women and men. LAF addresses these barriers by informing people of their rights and using the legal system to seek justice and change.

AAUW membership is open to anyone holding an associate, baccalaureate, graduate degree or the equivalent. AAUW values and seeks a diverse membership. For membership forms and more information, contact Virginia Turner at (408) 866-4234 or by email at vturner@sbcglobal.net or visit our branch website at www.aauw-lgs.org

2015-16 Scorecard: Three Supreme Court Cases

August 04, 2016

This summer, the U.S. Supreme Court decided several landmark cases that will impact the rights of women and girls across the country for years to come and will profoundly affect gender equity.

Contraceptive Access Still Threatened (Left Undecided)

Following the disastrous Hobby Lobby decision, women's access to contraceptive care was under threat. When the Affordable Care Act regulations were created, the government built in an accommodation for religious nonprofits that objected to contraception on religious grounds. Most nonprofits accepted the accommodation (simply notify insurers or the government of objections to paying for their employees' contraceptive care), a small group argued that the accommodation didn't go far enough to protect their religious beliefs. The Supreme Court agreed to hear several of the cases, consolidated under the case name Zubik v. Burwell since the circuit courts disagreed over whether the accommodation was sufficient.

The court sent all of the cases back to the lower courts for reconsideration. The Supreme Court's decision not only delays any resolution of the issues but also creates more possibility for confusion and competing interpretations of federal law.

Affirmative Action Carries the Day (Decided)

Fisher v. University of Texas at Austin was the court's first race-conscious admissions case since 2003. After several rounds of appeals, the high court finally heard arguments this term. In Fisher, a white student sued the University of Texas, claiming that the university's admissions policy violated her rights by taking race into account.

Thankfully, the court adhered to its earlier decisions and reaffirmed the constitutionality of race-conscious admissions. Writing for the four-justice majority, Justice Anthony Kennedy emphasized the university's efforts to ensure that its admissions program was aimed at achieving diversity and providing fair opportunity without unfairly advantaging any students. AAUW joined an amicus brief urging the court to uphold the policy.

Reproductive Rights Vindicated (Decided)

It was the court's decision in Whole Woman's Health v. Hellerstedt that will have the most profound effects on the rights of women and girls across the country. In Whole Woman's Health, the court clearly and unambiguously affirmed the constitutional right of all women to make decisions about their health, family, and future without needless barriers.

In recent years, a number of states across the country have passed so-called TRAP (targeted regulation of abortion providers) laws in an attempt to restrict and even eliminate women's access to legal abortion. TRAP laws are designed to prevent doctors from being able to perform abortions. They are typically passed under the guise of protecting women's health, even though the provisions generally do nothing to increase the standard of care. Hellerstedt challenged two TRAP law provisions in Texas, one requiring all doctors providing abortion care to have admitting privileges at a local hospital and one that required all clinics providing abortion care to meet the same standards as ambulatory surgical centers.

The court soundly rejected both TRAP provisions and emphasized that Texas had not offered any evidence that either provision did anything to protect women's health. In fact, medical evidence showed that the requirements did nothing to make patients safer. And the court also emphasized that the burden on abortion access was severe—allowing the two requirements to remain in place would have closed the majority of clinics in Texas.
